Editorial Review

Review

“A novel about the martyrdom of Europe’s Jews that has never been surpassed.” (Times Literary Supplement)

“An unforgettably beautiful novel . . . Cuts to the very heart of human experience.” (The New York Times Book Review)

“One of the enduring works of the Shoah . . . This miraculous novel pays profound homage to remembrance.” (Boston Globe)

“Creative storytelling . . . Asks us to weigh the human need for hope in all its real and imagined forms.” (The New Yorker)

About the Author

Jurek Becker was born in Lodz, Poland, in 1937. A Holocaust survivor, he was one of the very few Jews to remain in Germany after the war. He became an internationally acclaimed novelist, short story writer, and screenwriter and died in 1997.

Leila Vennewitz was the distinguished translator of Heinrich Böll and other postwar German writers, including Jurek Becker and Martin Walser. She won numerous awards for her translations. She died in 2007.

Louis Begley is the award-winning author of Wartime Lies, About Schmidt, and many other acclaimed novels and works of nonfiction.
